Report

"Craft Making from Best Out of Waste"

Organized by NSS in Collaboration with Koshish Club of JUIT

Date: 24th September 2024

Time: 5:30 PM – 6:30 PM

Venue: CR9, JUIT Campus

Introduction

On the occasion of NSS Day, 24th September 2024, NSS, in collaboration with Koshish Club of JUIT, organized a special event titled “Craft Making from Best Out of Waste”. The event aimed to promote creativity, environmental awareness, and the value of resourcefulness among the young students associated with the Koshish Club. The activity also intended to instill a sense of responsibility towards sustainable practices and the effective utilization of resources.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to the faculty coordinators from both clubs for their invaluable support and guidance. From NSS, we acknowledge the contributions of Dr. Nishant Jain, Dr. Pradeep Garg, and Dr. Ashok Kumar. From Koshish club, we are grateful to Prof. Dr. Hemant Sood and Asst. Prof. Prateek Thakral for their collaborative efforts and encouragement, which played a vital role in making this event a success.

Event Overview

The event commenced with a brief introduction by the coordinators of both NSS and Koshish Club. They highlighted the significance of the activity, stressing how the concept of "Best Out of Waste" aligns with the principles of both clubs, which emphasize holistic education and community engagement.

The participating students, guided by volunteers from both NSS and Koshish Club, showcased their creativity by crafting small, useful items from discarded materials. Given their age, the children were encouraged to make simple yet practical items such as paper boats, paper handbags, and decorative wall hangings using old newspapers, waste paper, and other readily available materials. The session aimed to channel their creativity while also teaching them the importance of resourcefulness and environmental conservation.

Key Highlights

Some of the noteworthy crafts created during the event include:

- Handbags from Waste Paper: Students creatively used old newspapers and sheets to make colorful and practical paper handbags.
- Paper Boats and Hats: The children engaged in folding and decorating paper boats and hats, making the activity fun and enjoyable.
- Decorative Wall Hangings: Using colored paper and waste cardboard, the students designed small decorative wall hangings.

The event provided an opportunity for the young students to learn and practice creative recycling in a playful and interactive environment, while also fostering teamwork and collaboration.

Impact and Feedback

The event witnessed enthusiastic participation and was highly appreciated by the students and volunteers alike. It not only encouraged the students to think innovatively but also imparted a valuable lesson on the importance of environmental conservation and sustainability.

The feedback from both parents and students was positive. Many parents expressed their joy at seeing their children engage in such meaningful activities. The students, too, felt a sense of accomplishment as they proudly displayed their crafts at the end of the session.

Conclusion

The “Craft Making from Best Out of Waste” event was a fruitful and engaging initiative, reflecting the shared mission of the NSS and Koshish Club to contribute positively to the community and the environment.
