REPORT

The 10-day Pre-RDC camp at the Veterinary Pharmacist Training Institute in Kotlabarog, Himachal Pradesh, was a valuable experience for all participants. The camp aimed to prepare cadets for the Republic Day event while fostering discipline, teamwork, and leadership skills. On the first day, after settling into our barracks, I took on the role of registering cadets. This involved managing paperwork and ensuring a smooth entry process, helping me get to know the diverse group of participants.

The second day started with rigorous training at 5 in the morning, focusing on drills, physical fitness, and teamwork. The day extended until 11 in the evening, with cultural events providing a refreshing break. Throughout the camp, participants were organized into queues based on their roles in upcoming Republic Day events, such as cultural performances, the best cadet competition, flag area management, PM rally, and Kartavya Path.

I chose to participate in the PM rally, contributing actively to its preparations. Each day brought new challenges, including drill practices, physical exercises, and theoretical sessions about the Republic Day parade. The trainers ensured that every cadet acquired the essential skills needed for a successful performance.

The camp concluded with a cultural event, allowing participants to showcase their talents and unwind after intense preparations. This event fostered camaraderie among the cadets and created lasting memories.

In conclusion, the Pre-RDC camp provided a balanced mix of discipline, learning, and camaraderie. The rigorous training, along with the cultural event, equipped cadets for the challenges and celebrations of the upcoming Republic Day parade, enhancing both physical and mental resilience while instilling pride and responsibility among all participants.
